INTRIGUE AT THE CAPITOL

CASHIER TRIED TO CUST HIM

During His Absence in Maine the Man Made Himself Solid With the Solons, and When the Bon!face Returned He Found His Tenure Shalay-Firm Hold Again.

Capt. Thomas L. Page, the proprietor of e Scaate restnurant, has had trouble ver the privilege which he has enjoyed for the last twelve years.

Hitam R. Tappan, who halls from the Eastern Shore of Maryland, is an aspirant for the honor of catering to the appetites of the Seastorial epicures. He has for a rely been in the employ of Capt. Page as cashier, but now he has in hand a petition for his employer's removal.

It will be remembered that the privilege f running the Senate restaurant is granted by the Committee on Rules and is not to be purchased. It is a favor, pure and simple. For the last twelve years Capt Page has held this privilege, which was accorded him duting President Cleveland's first Ad-Capt. Page also runs a and in this city, and that, too, is fre quented by many Congressmen. Away up in Maine, the home State of the great thite ezar, there is a summer hostelry waten is presided over also by Mr. Page It become quite necessary, recently, for the restaurant proprietor to leave Washington and make a trip to the cool regions of his Maine resort. This to look after the great influx of patrons. He selected Mr. Tappan to take charge of the Senate restourant in his absence. It is said be cautioned his cashier to be particularly aindful of the welfare of the guests, and o upheld the reputation of the restaurant in that direction. Of course, Mr. Page's interests were to be incidental. Everything was to be run in behalf of the patrons reems that Mr. Tappan was perfectly dedient in this direction. At any rate, be made many friends in his new posi-tion. The Senature seemed to flock about him and dwell longingly on his virtues. He claims that while the Senators were in this loving mood they decided to then and there throw over the absent friend They were ready and willing to be led to the table by the new proprietor.

In short, there was so much of this talk that Mr. Tappan incomplately reported to the public typewriter who dwells in the Sease corndor. She was induced to prepare in proper terms a petition. Somelie this began to circulate about the Senate chamber Of course, it was addressed to Committee on Bules, of which Mr Aidneb is chairman, but that gentleman has to think about petitioners, frogs' legs of

There were others, however, and their tames were readily appeteled to the paper requesting the removal of Capt. Page and the appointment of Mr. Tappan as the proprietor of the Senate restaurant. One usua pproached Capt. Page yesterday, saying Why, I see you are tack. I heard you were not going to return; that you had given up the restaurant." "I know no bing of it," responded mine

"Well. I signed a petition for Tappan under that impression," was the answer. "You see how it I'ms been," said Capt. Page to The Times representative. e has been going around telling that I ad gone away and given up the privilege That was the scheme to get signers." At this point the frends of Mr. Tappan an nounced that his name would be with-

From what can be learned Mr. Page arrived in the city Monday morning. It was then that he first heard of the plan. He went to the Caritol and repreached Mr. Tappan for his action. The cashier did not deny certain things. He admitted the petition, but claimed he was induced to do five feet, ten and three-quarter inches by certain dissatisfied 8 Page Instantly discharged his eashier, and they endeasured to effect a settlement It was apparent that they could not come to an agreement and this was o phosized when Mr. Tappan positively declined to give up the keys to the restau Capt Page remonstrated, but in tain. He was compelled to appeal to one of the Capitol police and the latter's request for the keys was instantly con-plied with by Mr. Tappan. Senator Teller was the only member of the Committee on Rules who was accessi ble yesterday, and he said he had not even heard that an attempt was being made to change the management of the Senate restaurant.
